

Paradise

I woke up in the morning, it felt like something was different a strange different. I went to get my cereal out of the cupboard and I had a giant thumb. I was saying to myself this is not my paradise. I went to pour the milk into bowl with the other hand because I had a giant thumb and the milk went everywhere, this is not my paradise. Mum came along and said "what on earth are you doing?" I said "I had to pour the milk into the bowl with my other hand because I had a giant thumb and the milk went everywhere." Mum sighed, "what giant thumb?" I said "this!" then I had a quick glimpse at my thumb and it wasn't big. I cried "b...b...b... but it was big before." Mum yelled "don't lie to me" I sighed, this is not my paradise. When I went to put my joggers on, my favourite joggers on their pink, blue and silver ones. They are one size too big but my mum said I should grow into them. More like grow out of them. Seriously this is not my paradise. I was just on my way to school after digging through my shoe box to find a pair of shoes. When suddenly I heard the phone ring, it said this is sunrise you have just won $800,000. I screamed "mum we just won cash cow" mum came running to the phone and took over talking. Then I said this is my paradise. As soon as she could mum had our family booked for a 10 day holiday in Singapore, when we all got there I said this is my paradise. The next day I had a huge breakfast ham, pepperoni, croissants and cheese. I didn't know life could get so good, I said this is my paradise. I was getting pampered, nails painted, massages and I said this is my paradise. The next day I was in the pool the water was warm the birds were chirping, the bees were buzzing and I bet you know what I going to say this is my paradise

By Amity Loxley